

YOU ARE NOT ALONE

Urinary incontinence (loss of bladder control) is a common condition among male veterans. It can affect quality of life—but it is treatable and manageable.

For Veterans Living with Urinary Incontinence, URINCARE™ offers a better way forward.

We understand that every Veteran's needs and lifestyle are different. That's why URINCARE™ provides two advanced management options: a non-adhesive system designed for comfort and skin protection, and a condom catheter option for those seeking a secure solution that supports a more active lifestyle. Whether you're at home, traveling, enjoying time with family, or receiving care in a clinical setting, URINCARE™ can be tailored to fit your individual needs.

The URINCARE™ System is fully mobile, hands-free, battery-operated, and rechargeable, allowing you to maintain your independence wherever life takes you. Our innovative technology is designed to help keep you dry, comfortable, and confident throughout the day and night.

The Department of Veterans Affairs covers the URINCARE™ System, and it is supported by numerous VA departments across the country. However, our greatest advocates are the Veterans who use URINCARE™ every day. Their experiences, feedback, and success stories have helped pave the way for fellow Veterans to gain access to advanced bladder management technology that improves quality of life.

If you're reading this, chances are you've already experienced the frustrations of traditional bladder management methods that have provided limited success. You deserve a solution that restores your freedom, dignity, and independence.

Isn't it time to take the next step? Contact Omni's Customer Care team today and let us help guide you through the process of obtaining your URINCARE System through your local VA facility. Discover how advanced technology, personalized support, and proven results can help you reclaim the life you deserve.
